When watering your lawn, do it early in the morning to prevent evaporation. Also use a sprinkler that makes larger drops in order to soak your lawn. A thorough soaking every three days of three centimeters will make your lawn healthy.

When washing your car use a bucket and sponge. Use the hose only to rinse, as this cuts on water use.

When washing large areas you can save a lot of water and effort by using a bucket and a mop instead of using a hose.

Check all faucets and pipes in your home for leaks. Fixing leaky hardware can save water.

Don't let your brothers and sister play with faucets and pipes.

If you hand wash your dishes, only use the water for rinsing. Letting the water run while washing wastes four gallons every minute.

You can save up to forty gallons of water, if you shower in less than ten minutes. Try keeping the water pressure low when rinsing.

While brushing your teeth, turn off the water. Four gallons wash down the drain every minute you brush.
